

Latisse Consent

LATISSE is an FDA-approved prescription treatment for hypotrichosis used to grow eyelashes, making them longer, thicker, and darker. Hypotrichosis is another name for having inadequate or not enough eyelashes. The FDA reviewed clinical study results to verify the identity, potency, purity, and stability of the ingredients, and demonstrated that the product is safe and effective for its intended use if used as prescribed.

If you are considering LATISSE (bimatoprost ophthalmic solution 0.03%), it is important to get all the facts before making any decisions. Like any new product, you're going to have questions about how the treatment works, how soon you'll see results, and, of course, how safe the product is. Please feel free to ask your medical provider about any questions you may have regarding LATISSE.

While most everyone may want the look of longer, fuller and darker lashes, not everyone may be right for the treatment. Your doctor may have to evaluate your medical history to determine if you are a good candidate. You should not use LATISSE if you have an active eye condition, including an eye infection, have broken or irritated skin on your eyelid, or are allergic to any of its ingredients. If you are using products for elevated intraocular pressure, you should only use LATISSE after consulting with your doctor.

Do any of the above conditions apply to you? Yes No

If yes, please explain:

The most common side effects after using LATISSE solution are an itching sensation in the eyes and/or eye redness. This was reported in approximately 4% of patients. LATISSE solution may cause other less common side effects which typically occur on the skin close to where the LATISSE is applied, or in the eyes. These include skin darkening, eye irritation, dryness of the eyes, and redness of the eyelids.

Do you understand these potential side effects as they have been described above? Yes No

If yes, please explain:

Like every routine, applying LATISSE is all about consistency and precision. Once you follow the basic guidelines, the results will come gradually over time. To see the full effect of your eyelash transformation, take a "before" picture to track your progress. Your doctor or staff member will provide you with verbal and/or written instructions on how to apply LATISSE.

Do you have any questions about the proper use and application of Latisse? Yes No
